SCHOOLS OF YESTERDAY

It doesn't matter how poor a man is, how rich he is, how old he is, or in what country he may be living, his thoughts go back to the little school where he learned the first elements of the English language.

Perhaps he was a bad student and felt the strap on a average of about once a week, but that doesn't matter now. In fact he is apt to take a vicarious pleasure out of memory of the strapping forty years later. He is apt to say to himself: "It was the strap that made me and I wish they would use it often at the present day."

Then he has pleasant memory of the old-time teachers and the old-time school room, which was equipped with an old box stove. There was only one small blackboard and he had to use a slate for all written work. He can remember the old-time spelling matches when the teams were lined up on opposite sides of the school room, and the members spelled each other down. He can remember the difficulties he had with grammar and with arithmetic, but he prides himself on the fact that when he left school he could spell as well as anybody and write a good legible hand which was useful to him in the after life, and knew enough about figures to make out his income tax later on.—The Settler Independent.

THE OTHER SIDE

The editorial repeated above is whimsical, and to many of us "old-timers" it strikes a responsive note... but can hardly be taken as a studied comparison of the old and new methods of education. In the first place, despite the criticism levelled at the "inarticulate" youth of today, you only have to spend a year or two in a newspaper office to realize that there were a great many students in the "old-time" schools who neither learned to write or to spell with any degree of accuracy. Of course the legibility of one's handwriting bears little relation to one's mental ability or scholastic attainments. About all one has to do to be convinced of this is to attempt to decipher the calligraphy of a doctor or a minister. Of course there are exceptions, but in general their writing shows more character than legibility. (We'll say nothing about the Editor's penmanship!)

While our curriculum of today is the object of a great deal of criticism, it is still vastly improved over that used in the "good old days." If there is any falling away in the students' accomplishments, we feel that it would be more related to forces outside the school-room rather than within. Not only has the present day world moved more to attract the attention of the young people, but parental control seems to have to some extent waned. Over and above all this is the fact that the average young person of today is protected and isolated from many of the cold realities which inspired the youth of former times with a greater realization of the need for great effort. What we have infer is that things come easier today and economic security is much more readily arrived at.

With the lowered need for drive and the greater competition afforded by today's amusements, there is little wonder that whatever curriculum we present may not show up with as great benefits as it might have in more arduous times.

Still feel that a great deal of effort should be made to improve the standard of English used by the average school graduate. As has been pointed out, language is our primary tool. We depend on it for the exchange of ideas, for our education in all ways, and for the greater part of our amusement. Indeed there are few things we depend on to a greater extent than on our command of and use of the English language.

PAPER BATTLE OF THE TANKS

The world has been enjoying the newspaper and magazine "Battle of the Tanks" as between Russia and the United States. No specific figures can be accepted from either side. Maybe Russia has 40,000 tanks, and maybe she has 100,000. American soldiers learned to their sorrow that Russia had some mighty fining power to distribute among her satellites. If the pride of the Yankees has been cut deeply enough as a result of the incident there is no need to worry. It might easily be, like in previous wars, that 40,000 tanks built before 1950 would be little better than obsolete in 1951. We are told that Britain had thousands of tanks at D-day that were useless on the field of battle. She loaded hundreds of them on big scows and used them as auxiliary artillery to lay down barrages when the landing were being made on the Normandy coast. Britain led the world in aircraft engineering then and admittedly is doing it again in the matter of jet propulsion at the present time. Britain's destroyer and escort services were the best in the war, while United States excelled in her heavy battle wagons and aircraft carriers. No one power seemed to have everything supreme. Russia had her artillery and rockets, and Germany her 88s... and all but got away with her flying missiles.—Camrose Canadian.

TIME

Two popular mottoes for sun-dials are distinctly opposite in tone. One, which might be used by a large majority is: "I count only sunny hours." The other, suitable for use by an opposition, has a chilling sound. It states: "It's later than you think."

Temperaments expressive of each of the mottoes are to be found everywhere. The sense of time is only gradually acquired. Animals are quite lacking in it. Children can be disciplined into following school timetables and turning up at meals with reasonable punctuality, but it is doubtful whether most of them feel for themselves that time is important.

With maturity, a man begins to feel the force of a sterner motto. Hours to be counted are no longer always sunny. The pressure of hours already wasted prods the conscience. The second-hand of the clock, sweeping as inexorably and silently as Times scythe, mows down the minutes as he watches. A slave to clocks and calendars, he hears the motto continually, "It's later than you think."

Old age, retirement or a change of occupation may deliver a man from the bondage of time. Age, whether or not it brings wisdom, usually brings a philosophical acceptance of the inevitable.

Compromise between the two mottoes is possible and desirable. Normal life in a mechanized age cannot proceed without a sense of time, but it should not be allowed to dominate all waking hours. Hobbies can make sunny the hours spent away from office, shop, work. Some freedom from slavery to time in working hours might be gained by removing the second hand of the clock.—Printed Word.

Joe Rutledge Says

By Joseph Lister Rutledge

Is It An Honest Gesture?

One sometimes wonders how much union officials represent the thinking of the more sober and responsible union members rather than the hot-headed fringe. Speaking at the Windsor Labor Day, George Hurt, Canadian director of the United Automobile Workers, challenged industry in these words: "The strike weapon need never be used if employers are prepared to enter into proper collective bargaining with the idea of full participation of the worker in the profits and fruits of industry."

Was Mr. Hurt merely shadow-boxing or did his words represent the thinking of responsible workers?

Quite obviously Mr. Hurt was voting

ing a reasonable demand, and the only thing that seems surprising about it is that these sober workers do not always realize that this demand has been met. They do not recognize that some day the public is going to realize it too and may begin to question whether continuing demands are not overriding the rights of the public, whose servant both worker and employer must always be.

What has labor gained? The answer, in its simplest form, is that in the last ten years organized labor in manufacturing has reduced its average working hours by one-eighth—from 47.5 hours per week in 1939 to 43.3 hours per week in 1950. In the same period it has more than doubled its average weekly earnings—from an overall average of $20.14 in 1939 to $42.37 in 1950. It hardly seems that there should be much complaint over such progress.

Still, it might be argued that the worker and management started with a sharp disproportion that such dramatic gains do not yet put them on an even footing. Let's look at that phase of the argument. Remember that for fewer work hours the worker's average wage has gone up in ten years 116 per cent. Of course profits have gone up too. Between 1939 and 1947, the last record available, they were up 109 per cent, not as much as labor's gains but still not bad. There is this difference however. The worker got all his 116 per cent gain. Management began by applying almost half of its gain against taxes. Then, still out of its share, it had to provide for those wages of labor, for shorter hours and pensions and other benefits. It looked over aging plants and realized, if men were still to have jobs, plants and machines must be maintained and modernized. So, actually management and capital together, or took only 22 per cent of the profits available where in 1939 they had taken 48 per cent.

Now we wonder whether the sober element of labor will agree with Mr. Hurt, that when labor gets an even break there is no further place for strike demands?

The Editor,
Wainwright Chronicle,
Wainwright,
Dear Sir:

I should like space in your paper for a matter of absorbing interest. We were shocked to hear over the News Roundup on the Radio of the predicted death of The King the last of the cat.

No doubt he has to die sometime, but would it not be possible for the citizens of the Wainwright District to immortalize him by having him stuffed and put on exhibition at the station like the buffalo used to be many years ago.

We bellow the ruthless extermination of the buffalo, and the careless slaughter of the passenger pigeon; but we are not being just as careless when we allow King to be just another buffalo cat.

Two years ago we took the school children to see the Cat. King and the Yakalo were the main attraction to them. We came 40 miles to see them and they were very thrilled with the unusual animals.

Without seeming presumptuous, I should like to suggest that Wainwright start a fund for Taxidermy for King. I would gladly donate $5.00 for this purpose. Being on the main line of the C.N.R., literally thousands of citizens of the world pass through Wainwright. Think of the enjoyment it would give the travellers to look upon the noble animal, raised at Wainwright, and the only one in the world. Those people would never forget Wainwright, where they had seen such a marvel.

Hoping that we can thus save King for Posterity,
Respectfully yours,
MRS. FLOYD SPEIGHT,
Calma, Alberta.
Comox, B.C.

Mr. L. D'Albertanson,
Wainwright.

Dear Mr. D'Albertanson:

I have just read your editorial and Mr. Teakey's letter to the County Sys.

THE WEEK AT OTTAWA

By the Canadian Press

Britain's minister of economic affairs warned Ottawa that inflation and a looming scarcity of strategic materials is threatening defence planning for Europe.

The minister, Hugh Gaitskell, told a Canadian Club luncheon and a press conference that the United Kingdom and other European countries are deeply worried about climbing prices for defence materials in Canada and elsewhere.

The 44-year-old British minister had confidentially with Finance Minister Abbott and Trade Minister Howe and while the talks were described as "general" Mr. Gaitskell disclosed that he had discussed the significance of inflation with Mr. Abbott.

Mr. Gaitskell offered no suggestions as to how inflation and scarcity may be controlled. He said the question of increases in raw material prices "laid over the world" was particularly serious matter for Britain.

On the optimistic side however was the fact the Commonwealth's sterling area now had reserves of $2,700,000,000 in gold and U.S. currency, more than double the "very low" level prior to devaluation of the pound in September, 1949.

He indicated however there would be no easing of restrictions on British purchases from Canada and the United States until increased reserves were obtained. But no new restrictions would be imposed.

Canada's surplus Finance Minister Abbott announced the federal government showed a budgetary surplus of $294,100,000 in the first six months of the fiscal year, ending Sept. 30. Revenues were $1,281,400,000 compared with expenditures of $985,300,000.

But the minister emphasized that the expanded defence program authorized at the emergency session of parliament had not yet been reflected to any great extent in government spending. Calendar year-end expenditures would tend to reduce substantially the surplus already accumulated.

His "half budget" last Sept. 7 Mr. Abbott had estimated a surplus of $16,000,000 for the entire fiscal year ending next March 31.

Key question at the capital remains the ultimate destination of Canada's special service force.

Will the 25th Brigade, hastily, but toughly-trained, go to Korea? Will it go to Europe? Or will it go somewhere else? Nobody here knows the answer, or whether the brigade is going to go anywhere.

Meanwhile, the original plans to send the brigade to Korea are still going forward because nobody knows of anything else to do. When you plan to get 10,000 or so men trained and moved to a far country, you do a lot of planning. And until you stop the music, a lot of queer things happen.

This week, for example, advance parties arrived at Fort Lewis, Wash., to prepare to receive the Special Forces. Fort Lewis had been chosen as a starting point for the brigade, which was expected to reach there in mid-November and go on to somewhere in the Pacific, possibly Okinawa, for final training. Tentative sailing dates already had been set, and no doubt in a few days or weeks, advance parties would be arriving to set things up at Okinawa, or wherever the brigade was to go.

And while this was going on, no (Continued on page seven)

Art Class At Viking; Why Not At Wainwright?

The following is a clipping from the Viking News. It prompts us to wonder whether there would be a sufficient number in Wainwright interested to have such a course organized for this centre.

The Art Club is very fortunate this year in having secured the services of Mr. D. D. Harris, graduate of the Ontario College of Art, as instructor. His studied also for two years with W. Ogilvie, noted artist, who did the mural for Trinity College, Toronto.

This brings our club into line with the Community Art Club sponsored by the Extension Dept. of the University and means that we will receive the same instruction as larger centres, such as Vegreville, Camrose, Red Deer and others. There are about 50 centres in the province.

Such an exceptional opportunity for developing a grand hobby should not be missed.

Classes will be held every week at the Viking School, Wednesday evenings at 8 p.m., beginning Oct. 18 and continuing until the end of April.

Cost is very reasonable. Adults $10.00 Juniors $5.00 for the full term.

NEWS NOTES from your Dist. Home Economist

Miss Bernice Reed
Wainwright, Alberta

Last week I was lucky enough to be asked, by the Lutheran Ladies Aid at Kingsman, to talk to them about Home Decoration. The real pleasure was in meeting all the ladies, and the three girls, who were present.

Also last week the Royal P.W.U.A. began their Home Designing Study Course which, because of the enthusiasm of the ladies, is sure to be a success. At that meeting, as at every meeting, the ladies raffled a gift, donated in turn by one of the members. Imagine my surprise and delight to find that I had won three of the daintiest dollies I have ever seen.

Characteristics of Aluminum Utensils

Aluminum utensils may be either stamped or cast. The best stamped articles are made from sheet metal which has been passed through a number of cold rolling processes. The pressure of the rolls has made the aluminum hard, dense and smooth, and it will withstand ordinary corrosion. It cannot chip or crack and is not affected by sudden changes in temperature.

Most utensils of aluminum are stamped. The exceptional—skillets and pressure pans—are usually of the cast metal. Cast aluminum contains from six to eight percent alloy. The finest castings contain some magnesium. Cast aluminum is more porous, less dense than the stamped metal.

Aluminum is light in weight, weighing only about one-third as much as copper, iron and tin. Aluminum utensils are accordingly easier to handle and save the energy of the homemaker. They are comparatively low in initial cost and with ordinary care will last a lifetime.

As a rule, aluminum pots and pans are easily cleaned. This is in part due to the fact that foods do not readily stick to aluminum. Certain minerals found in hard water and free alkalies present in strong soaps will cause aluminum to darken, but the original color may be restored by boiling a weak vinegar solution in the pan.

GRAIN MAKES ITS OWN ROOF

—Central Press Canadian

Dumped to make room for spring wheat and barley being harvested in western U.S., this pile of 400,000 bushels of grain will remain in the open all winter at Ogden, Utah. If the first rainfall is a moderate one, a two-inch crust will form on top of the grain pile and shed future rain and snow just like a sloping roof. The wet grain will be averted to keep it from spoiling.

Next week you may read about some of the fallacies about aluminum. This is one of the most interesting pieces I think.

This week, for the first time in my life, I had the pleasure (?) of tasting a new flavor combination—chocolate gingerbread. All I can say about it is that the chocolate icing was delicious.

The answer to last week's question is: An egg-white, if beaten when warm will give more volume than if the egg-whites were cold. Also the faster you beat, the larger the volume of egg-white. Remember that when you are making angel-food and oil cakes, and meringues of any type.

Now let's see how many of you get this one—What campaign or "Week" is being conducted, assisted by the Dairy Branch of the Department of Agriculture, from October 16th to November 15th.

Stubble Burning — Crime Still Rampant

In spite of repeated pleadings to stop burning combine stubble and straw, this expensive and destructive practice still continues. With utter disregard of the crying need of most of our soils for fibre, for protection from wind and water erosion, farmers in many districts continue to apply match and skrap off the residue with "It's too heavy a crop to handle any other way."

C. A. Cheshire, Agricultural Engineer, Alberta Department of Agriculture says that there are very few cases where this excuse is actually true. In most cases a well adjusted tiller with sharp blades, and possibly added weight, will handle the straw of even heavy cereal crops. In the areas of the province where blades are used the straw presents very little difficulty. Yet, even in those areas some burning is still practiced. This adds up to a very expensive operation, warns Mr. Cheshire. Not only is valuable fibre lost, but the actual fertilizer equivalent of the straw burned is considerable.

This survey for the second quarter, 1950 shows a marked increase in hog sales in the dominion over the same period in 1948. Hog prices are showing a seasonal decline plus a drop due to the change in value in the Canadian dollar. The present price level however is quite encouraging considering the amount of low grade wheat on the prairies this year that can be valued at

In the legume growing areas of the province sweet clover straw presents a problem—and again it is usually caused by fire. It is true that heavy sweet clover straw is difficult to handle. However, there is now equipment on the market that will allow this valuable material to be incorporated into the soil. The machines referred to are the straw cutters designed to fit onto the rear of the combine. There are several makes of straw cutters offered for sale but they all have one desirable feature, namely that they will cut and spread the straw sufficiently to allow easy handling by any of our tillage implements. It will be well to keep this equipment in mind for next season. In the meantime remember that your present crop of straw should go into the soil—not up in smoke.

Have Your Seed Grain Cleaned Now

When harvest is over farmers can take time to make plans for next year's crop. One important consideration is the seed that will be used. With frost damage in many areas this year, it is more important than usual that provision be made as soon as possible for clean seed that will grow.

J. S. Birdsell, Supervisor of Crop Improvement, reminds us that every year facilities for cleaning seed grain are taxed to capacity in March, April and May. Portable units, the new large central cleaning plants, and all other cleaning facilities find it difficult or impossible to cope with the demand for cleaning at that time of year. As a result many farmers use seed that is not cleaned or is not well cleaned. If seed cleaning could be distributed throughout the period from October to April or May many benefits would result. Operators would be able to give more attention to individual lots and bad seeds at any period would not be so serious a matter. The total quantity cleaned would be greatly increased, thereby lowering the cost per bushel for cleaning, and the quantity of weedy seed used would be reduced.

Get your seed grain cleaned or buy the seed you are going to need now, says Mr. Birdsell. It will save you worry and expense next spring. It may mean some rearrangement of granary space but it will be worth the effort. Farmers in districts where large central cleaning plants are established should be especially interested in doing this, and in getting their neighbours to do likewise. They will benefit as individuals and as shareholders in their cleaning plant. If cleaning can be more uniformly distributed throughout the fall and winter months thousands of bushels of better seed will be planted next spring.

Chamber Of Comm.
Hears Mr. Marlett

agriculture, civic activities industry and commerce, commerce, industry and civic activities.

Referring to their activities in connection with agriculture, he said that anything that will bring about a better understanding between the farmer and the businessman was desirable and works to the welfare of the community. He made reference to the work that the Canadian Chamber of Commerce was doing regarding research in forestry and water conservation.

Research foundations had been set up, and their reports would, he felt,
have play an important part in both these activities.

Referring to local activities he cited
the efforts made at Brooks, Alberta, to bring town and country closer together. He said that a big farmers picnic had been provided by the town for the past two years, at which 4,000 to 7,000 people from the country gathered to spend a pleasant day. He said that this was helping to develop a kindly feeling between the town and the country.

He also mentioned the fact that items of special interest to the farmers staged between the games at the Lacombe sports proved popular.

District Agriculturists and others working to assist agriculture also valued the co-operation of the Chamber,
he said.

Referring to the work of the Chamber in connection with commerce, he said he felt that the body should take some interest in commercial affairs.

He said that one out of every seven persons on Canada were employed in either the retail or wholesale trades.
In the nation the mentioned promotion of merchandising events the chamber could find scope in checking fire protection, building by-laws and other various items which had a bearing on the welfare of the town.

Civic activities included the relationship of businessmen with the community as a whole—civic improvements,
sports, etc.

He said he had never seen a town or village where the citizens could not think of something that would help
the community and advance its welfare.

He said that the Chamber should take an interest in matters relating to education. Except the church and the home, no other factor welded such a great influence as had education in the formation of character, he said. He recognized the need for business people and educators to get together on their problems.

Referring to teachers' salaries he urged that these be raised to a level where the best class of individuals are drawn into the profession.

He felt that governments above the municipal level should bear a greater share of the cost of education.

From the industrial angle he reminded his listeners that Canada had embarked on an unprecedented era of industrial expansion. This year's was the biggest boom in the history of Canada. He said that people in other countries were looking to Canada for a location to invest their money. This he said was largely due to the fact that one could still sustain a business in Canada without coming under state control.

This pointed up the need for communities to be working and planning ahead to share in this expanding economy. The opportunities for the smaller communities were enhanced by the decentralization of industry which is now in progress.

Industrial efforts should include—assistance to present industries and co-operation with new industries. Every businessman should promote the growth of the town at every opportunity, he said.

In this connection the Canadian Chamber was willing to extend the local chambers every assistance possible.

He made reference to the trade committees set up by the Canadian Chamber. These committees were working in co-operation with government and other trade organizations in an effort to develop trade with Britain (on which the West depends to such a great extent) and with the United States.

He said that a third committee was working on the north-western trade, concentrating its efforts to the improvement of relations between Alaska
the Yukon and the N.W.T.

There was never a greater need for co-operation between the free countries of the world than there is today, he said, for there are forces at large who would take away our liberty and subject us to a foreign power.

Getting together was the beginning, working together was progress—and keeping together—success.

The chairman then called on Mr. H.
Tusky to express the thanks of those present to Mr. Marlett for his fine address.

Mr. Tusky said that he would like
Mr. Marlett to go away with a feeling of satisfaction that the ordinary Chamber of Commerce, besides its regular duties, could be of service to the average. This Chamber, he said, reached into all parts of the community and was not limited to the business community alone. It was a body that was all in the same boat, he said,
and must pull together. He was particularly thankful for the enthusiasm the speaker had brought to use.

Mr. Tusky said that before coming to Wainwright he had been a member of a service club, and as a member of that organization the destruction of having guest speakers had been made clear.

Over the years the subject of the need of so-called rest room facilities for the public in the town of Wainwright has been spoken of and written about so often that it has become boring to almost everyone, but so far nothing has ever come of the project. He said he was expounding on the subject of the risk of increasing the boredom of a number of people we add a few more words to the thousands that have already been expounded on the subject.
The only reason for doing this is the fact that a committee of the Chamber of Commerce has been doing some research on the subject and it appears that something is brewing once again
on this old problem.

To begin with it seems too bad that we have over the past few years become so baneful that we use the term Rest Room to cover any 2 by 4 ft.
space, whether indoors or out with walls thick enough to hide whatever primitive accommodation for the relief of mankind that may be inside.

As we see it most of these public accommodations are anything but restful and it seems that we are all broad minded enough to have them labelled what they are even if such labelling constitutes one of the old fashioned signs indicating "Ladies" and "Gents".
For this type of accommodation is certainly not what we are talking about when we stress the need for rest room accommodation in Wainwright.

We want, and we need, something along the lines of the pre-fire U.P.W.A.
Hall in this town. This hall should naturally include a large and clean bathroom or two particularly for the ladies and children, but the main part of it should be a large and comfortable sitting room where weary shoppers could relax for a while and talk with their friends and neighbors. A spot of coffee and sandwiches might even be available, and to make it complete on Saturdays there should be some part of the building set aside with an attendant where the young fry could be checked in while mother does her shopping.

Such a project is certainly out of the reach of any one organization in the town or country, but it is not out of the reach of the whole community working together. The Chamber of Commerce, working with the Municipal and Town Councils could certainly install any of the plumbing that might be required and we feel that one of our civic-minded citizens could probably be obtained for not too large a sum as a start. A building lot could certainly be made available by the town and the business men as a whole would probably be willing to look after the furnishings. We have already heard that various rural women's organizations would be willing to look after the building on a week by week basis.

This project must with the approval of the last C. of C. meeting and it is their intention to try to interest the various rural organizations sufficiently to have a representative meeting soon and get the thing rolling. Whether or not this comes to pass depends absolutely on every one of you. We can go on talking about this project for another ten years but unless we all get behind it you can be sure that no fairy godmother is going to wave her wand and produce such a centre for us. And now that the water supply system of the town is finally operating we should really make a try at it.

There may be some who would be satisfied with the meaning of the words Rest Room that the service station has.

These have shyly made popular. Frankly we feel that isn't enough, and as far as we in this corner are concerned it's the proper thing as described above or none at all if it is to be recognized as our official Rest Room. Such an establishment would be a credit to the town and district and would fill a very great need for our rural friends who make this their shopping centre.

October Bad Month For Weed Flavors

Dairymen are reminded by Alberta's Dairy Commissioner, D. H. McCullum, that it is impossible to manufacture top quality butter from milk or cream that has been tainted with weed flavors. This under-grade butter sells at considerable discount and most consumers would rather depend on substitutes than use doubtful butter. Stubble fields are providing a considerable amount of good pasture this fall and as the milk cows are turned into these fields the danger from tainted milk increases.

To help eliminate lost grades and reduced income on cream shipments, Mr. McCullum urges the burning of all stubble fields from around threshing machines before turning milk cows into the field. Another safeguard is to remove cows from weed infested fields 4 to 6 hours before milking. The longer the interval, the less will be the possibility of tainted milk. Milk each cow into an empty pail and determine by taste or smell if any of the cows are giving tainted milk, advises Mr. McCullum. Such milk can be separated and collected in a different container or fed to livestock. In the case of stinkweed, some producers say that they can readily detect it on the breath of the cows as they are being tied in the stanchions.

Check carefully the flavour of each individual separation before adding to the shipping can. Often, only the cream from the night's milk may be tainted and this can be marketed in another shipping can.

BAD PARKING

Care park every way imaginable and owners have no concern for the other fellow. Cars are parked just far enough apart so that another cannot possibly get in and in one place recently checked

Feed Lots And Weed Control

Those feeding livestock this winter are advised by G. R. Sterling, Supervisor of Soil Conservation and Weed Control, to pay strict attention to the regulations on feeding screenings as set out in the "Notorious Weeds Act." This section provides that no screenings shall be used as feed for livestock unless used within an enclosure which shall be subject to the approval of a weed inspector.

Construct a suitable shelter now before the ground freezes, advises Mr. Sterling. The feed lot should provide ample accommodation for the cattle, but it should be small enough to confine

New wheat king of Ontario is Harry G. Stinson with his win Gordon. He sowed two bushels of seed, obtained from the Ontario Agricultural college at Guelph, Ont., over two acres and obtained 723 bushels to the acre, a phenomenal record. He has sold part of his crop as seed grain and expects that many neighbors around Hensall, Ont., will be growing record crops next year.

them so that they are not scattering weed seeds over a large area. An adequate place for storage of screenings should also be provided to prevent blowing and scattering of the weeds. In a strong wind, weed seeds can travel for miles in the winter over the smooth snow surface. Feed troughs placed in a sheltered spot will also help to eliminate this danger.

Plan the feed lot so that the manure may be readily piled in the spring, and left in the pile for the weed seeds to rot before scattering the manure on the land.

Our Korean Debt

The collapse of Communist resistance in Korea gave many a feeling of history repeating itself in miniature. It halted a little war that was far off and affected few Canadian families directly. But it dispelled the beginning of the same gnawing fear that attended similar remote news items in the 30's—the fear that grew with the onset of the Second World War and ended only five years ago when Germany and Japan capitulated.

In between, there were a number of occasions when we felt ourselves indebted to a relatively small number of men who kept the war at a safe distance from our own homes. There was the wondrous fleet of tugboats, pleasure boats and fishing craft that snatched an army from its doom at Dunkerque. The historic "For of the Royal Air Force, Canada, among them, beat off the Luftwaffe's efforts to overwhelm Britain a few months later.

We remember the 8th Army, small in comparison to the massive formations of the later Battle of Europe, who turned back the Germans and Italians in Libya when victory seemed remote. An American formation that refused to surrender at Bastogne provided the rallying point that transformed the Battle of the Bulge from a German victory into a German defeat. The alert platoon that captured a bridge at Remagen saved thousands of Allied lives

Dairying Gives High Returns

Surveys made in the Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, show that the cash income from the sale of dairy products is greater than the revenue from any other agricultural product with the exception of wheat. If the returns from the sale of dairy cattle for export and slaughter are included, then the total cash income from dairying exceeds that of wheat and approximates 25 per cent of the total cash income from farming.

Another point that is often overlooked when considering dairying in the national economy of Canada, is the part that the dairy animals themselves play in home and community life in helping to put agriculture on a more permanent basis.

While no one particularly likes doing chores, most farmers become attached to their animals and they soon become a part of farm life. They serve also to give children an understanding of life that proves invaluable to them and made the crossing of the Rhine virtually bloodless. Three British warships in the River Plate, guerrilla bands of Asiatas in southeast Asia and Europeans in the mountains of Greece and Yugoslavia made their contributions to our survival. And on each occasion we felt a glow of gratitude. Today, the same gratitude goes to the many lands who have stood up to what might have been the prelude to another world conflict. They were chiefly Americans and South Koreans, but included Britons, Australians, Canadians and others. The nationality isn't important. Once again, men have shed blood to win a reprieve from a far greater calamity. Beyond our sympathy and thanks, we owe them our best endeavors to make their achievement worth while.

Old Pearson Finds Beaver Are Smart

DRYDEN, Ont.—Old Pearson has decided beaver are smart animals. Beaver dams near his farm caused frequent flooding. Pearson has tried many ways to rid himself of the animals. None work. His latest brain-wave was to hang a lamp on a tree near where he had seen some beaver working. The light would scare the animals away, he reasoned. What happened? Next morning he found a huge new dam.

"Smart animals, those beaver," said Pearson. "They'd worked all night by the light of my lamp!"

The Week at Ottawa

body in Ottawa could say what would be the eventual destination of the special force, Ottawa activities for the next few weeks or months possibly hinged on the answer.

The answer lay with the United Nations. The force was assembled "for Korea, if necessary, but not necessarily for Korea," since nobody knew whether it would be needed there when it was trained and ready to go. Nobody still knows.

Should the war in Korea wind up quickly, the United Nations may ask for support in Europe, and Prime Minister St. Laurent already has hinted that the force may go there. If the U.N. decides on an international policing force in Korea (should the war end shortly), Canada may be asked to provide troops.

Indications here are that the government is not anxious to send the full Brigade to Korea for police or occupation purposes. A token unit might be sent, but the government seems to feel that public opinion wouldn't favor sending the whole force as occupation troops.

Taking another viewpoint, one stressed by cabinet ministers in recent speeches, there may be other "Koreas" Canada would want the special brigade on hand for such an eventuality.

tem, and wish to say how I appreciated both. In fairness to the public there should be ample opportunity given for discussion when making such a drastic administrative change.

At a recent convention of educationists held in Victoria where people from all across Canada were present, the "County System" was discussed and the following resolution was passed unanimously. I thought you might be interested to see it.

WHEREAS the C.E.T.A. is of the opinion that this policy is not in accord with the wishes of elected school authorities or in the interests of the Public at large;

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that no action be taken to enact such legislation without first submitting the proposals to a vote of the people concerned.

START PRAIRIE OIL FLOWING EAST

Hon. C. D. Howe, federal minister of Trade and Commerce, right, talks with Alberta's Premier Manning after the premier had turned the valve which sent oil gushing through the pipelines from Edmonton to Regina, 436 miles distant. Mr. Howe called the new pipeline as a "Canadian development of great significance," and said that, when completed and carrying Alberta oil to the eastern provinces, it would stop a drain on our economy of over $150,000,000 a year.

One Sport Helps Another, Say The Experts

Sports critics have come up with a reason for the overlapping of major sport seasons. They say that interest in an incoming sport helps to play under the shortcomings of that just bowing out.

In the case of this year's World Series, it's a good thing that a couple of American college football upsets came along just when the New York Yankees swept a four-game series from the Philly kids of Philadelphia.

Until such time as another comes along, the 1950 series will go into the records as one of the biggest let-downs the game has ever known.

Over the years, sport scribes, broadcasters and publicists have boosted the series into the most magnetic thing in sport. People deny themselves vacations in the heat of July and August in order to witness the games.

One writer whose thrice-weekly column now appears in a number of Canadian newspapers wrote of the Philly Whiz Kids as the luckiest gent in the world. And how right he was, for where else would they pick up in the neighborhood of $4,000 for the four humblings at the hands of the Yankees.

Lack Of Power

As the scores in the series would indicate, the Yankees were no powerhouses at bat. All games but the last were won on one-run margins. And victory came to the Yankee Clippers chiefly on their ability to make the best use of the openings left by the younger Phillies.

It can't be said that all the breaks went to the New Yorkers; rather, both clubs got about the same number. It was just that New York made use of them where the Phils couldn't come through with the hits when they were so badly needed.

It was the same hustle on the New York roster that was responsible for their season-long success. It carried them through when Heinrich was knocked with a bad knee and couldn't play; when the great DiMaggio was benched for a batting slump and when reliever Joe Page couldn't hit the target area at all.

Little guys like Gene Woodling, Bobby Brown and especially Jerry C's man paid off at bat for the Yankees in the four-game series which saw only two home runs, by the great DiMaggio and Yogi Berra.

Good but unspectacular, the pitching counted heavily but it was spotty. The series was won by a band of opportunists and they can always win a ball game when mediocre baseball is being played.

As always, the last out in a World Series always sets off a run of rumors around the ball circuits. Of the current crop, the observers say the one most likely to blossom is that which has Branch Rickey, now of the Brooklyn Dodgers front office, going to Pittsburgh Pirates to help his friend, John Galbreath, build up the hapless Bucs.

Yorkshireman W. E. Hopkins is considered champion world cocktail maker. His "John Simon", for which he used a gin base, won him the title in open competition in London.

Wheat For Seed

With widespread frost damage over many parts of Alberta this fall, much of the wheat is of inferior quality and will not be suitable for seed. To help farmers whose crops are badly frozen, the Canadian Wheat Board has a policy in effect under which wheat of inferior quality may be exchanged at the elevator for higher grade wheat for seed. Elevator agents can supply full information.

Farmers who desire to take advantage of this assistance should make enquiries from their elevator agents immediately. Since the good wheat is being shipped out fast, delay may mean disappointment.

"I'm just on my way to the bank"

Savings depositors with their pay cheques . . . retail merchants with the day's cash . . . people consulting the manager about loans, others cashing cheques . . . it is all part of the daily work of the branch bank.

In ten years the number of accounts maintained by bank depositors has grown from 5,000,000 to 8,000,000.

This shows how Canadians have come to count on their local banks for a great variety of services. The banks keep pace with the growing needs of the nation.

Students From Heath Attend V.S.A.

Norman Ford spent last week-end in Edmonton visiting his sister Mrs. H. Bogart.

Norma Patterson and Richard Rajotte left the beginning of the week for Vermilion where they will be in attendance at the Vermilion Agricultural School this winter. We all wish them a successful year and hope they benefit as others of the district have by taking advantage of these courses and training of our young people by this splendid Educational Institution.

Mrs. S. Baker of Victoria was a recent visitor at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. S. Chrysweth.

Thursday and Friday was a holiday enjoyed by the school children of the district due to a teachers convention held on those days.

Neil McPadyen and Arthur Patterson were trippers by motor to Innisfree one day last week.

IT'S WORTH SAVING PART OF FAMILY ALLOWANCE CHEQUES

Make This Down Payment on a Full Education

There are many ways of giving children a worthwhile start in life. Home training counts for a lot, so do good food and clothing. And there's the great advantage of a well-balanced education.

Most parents have probably discussed these matters often enough, just as they've discussed the best ways of employing the monthly Family Allowance Cheques. And they've considered the long-term uses of these cheques—saving them for High School and College days.

Even if you can't see your way to set aside the whole cheque each month, why not save a portion of it for this purpose? Open a special savings account at the Bank of Montreal, and put away your Dollars for Education regularly each month. By the time your family needs them, they'll have added up—year in, year out—to a sizeable sum. Your youngsters will appreciate this great help forward on the road to success.

When you receive your next cheque, drop into your local branch of the B of M to cash it and put some dollars aside. Mr. Smith, manager, warmly invites you to open a savings account for this best of purposes.

Park Branch W.A. Hold Meeting

The Park Branch meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Karr on Monday, October 23rd. The majority of members in attendance despite the roads. Two visitors were welcomed and all members enjoyed a portion of the new Study Book, read by Mrs. Griffiths, dealing with the Moslem world. Mrs. Knively will carry on the work of the previous Educational Secretary. Lunch was served by Mrs. Karr and Mrs. Donkie. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Washie.

Mrs. Hamilton and Harvey are living in town for a short time. In spite of muddy roads, the Gerald W.I. held their regular meeting on Thursday afternoon. They met at the home of Mrs. L. Hamilton. Eight members and two visitors were present with Mrs. A. LaFrance presiding. After the singing of O Canada and repeating the creed, members answered: Roll Call with recipes for a supper dish.

It was decided that the proceeds from the sale of tickets on the quilt would all be given away, one half to go to the Peace Memorial Centre, and one half to go to the Canadian Institute for the Blind.

NO SLEEP FOR BANKERS WHILE DOLLAR JUMPING

out even a thought of the forty hour week now being enjoyed by many in industry) two snowstorms, averaging anywhere from two to twelve inches in the various districts, swept across large sections of the prairie, leveling the heavier snow crops as they passed and doing serious damage to other lighter crops. This will result in further deterioration in grade and heavy loss by waste as it will be impossible to pick up nearly all of the flattened grain. Shelling will also cause considerable loss.

We now come to the marketing picture and price. At the present time our wheat is being sold under The International Wheat Agreement. We have contracted to sell approximately 212 million bushels during the present crop year at a price ranging between a maximum of $1.30 and a minimum of $1.40 in United States dollars. This meant that until September 29th last the maximum and minimum price respectively were $1.38 and $1.54 in Canadian funds. Commencing on Monday, October 2nd, by an order of Hon. D. C. Abbott, Minister of Finance, the Canadian dollar was freed to find its own level and for some days averaged near the 90 cent level. This meant that farmers were suffering a loss of nine cents per bushel on wheat selling at the maximum price and if in the future our dollar should reach parity with the U.S. dollar, a loss of 18 cents per bushel at the maximum price will be suffered.

Under the International Wheat Agreement maximum and minimum prices are fixed for each year on top grade wheat but costs entering into the production of the wheat are entirely ignored although Social Credit Members pointed out in Parliament that the price of wheat should be tied to the price of other commodities. If the price of commodities increased, the price of wheat should increase in proportion and if commodities price dropped, then wheat price should drop also. The latest Bureau of Statistics figures reveal that the cost of things the farmer has to buy now stands at 201 as compared with 100 during the 1926-29 period, but the price of almost everything the farmer has to sell is steadily declining. Coupled with this is the fact that during the crop years 1946, 1947, 1948 and 1949 the wheat growers of 14 Prairie provinces have been deprived of close to SIX HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS as a result of The British Wheat Agreement and cheap wheat being supplied to millers so that all Canadian consumers could eat cheap bread. This is a direct result of our Canadian Parliament in an emergency session to deal with that particular situation. The legislation provided that the workers should go back to work within forty-eight hours of the passage of the bill and then proceeded to make provision for both parties to resume negotiations for a period of thirty days if necessary for the granting of an extension of time by the Cabinet if application was made by both parties—this has been done and negotiations have broken down.

By the time this article appears in print the Cabinet will have appointed an arbitrator whose decision will be binding on both parties. The strike caused our farmers and many others engaged in the servicing of agriculture a lot of worry, expense and unnecessary inconvenience by the holding up of necessary supplies including repairs and the movement of livestock and grain. To the credit of the railway workers, they were back on the job as soon as ordered by their leaders and this order was given even before the bill had been given Royal Assent.

About August 15th many sections of the prairie received a devastating blow when the first severe frost of the season struck the crops which were later than usual on account of the late spring. This was followed by heavy frosts during the next ten days with snow in some districts, cutting the wheat yield by at least an estimated hundred million bushels with perhaps further downward revisions to come on account of prolonged bad weather. The grade has also been cut down as low as six or feed in many sections. With the yield reduced by one half or even more and the spread in price between one northern and feed wheat amounting to forty cents a bushel, one may realize the damage done by a slight frost. While farmers were getting adjusted to the loss in yield and grade and working every available hour to get the crop harvested (with-

Pretty Wedding Is Solemnized At St. Mary's Church

St. Mary's Anglican Church was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding on Thursday, October 19th, at 4 p.m., when Mrs. Mary Monson was united in marriage with Mr. David Richard Kelley, second son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kelley of McCafferty. Rev. W. D. Elway officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. E. C. Smithson, looked charming in an afternoon frock of navy tulle, with hat to match. She wore a two strand necklace of pearls, gift of the groom. Her corsage was of red roses. Mrs. E. C. Smithson, matron of honor, chose for her ensemble a navy blue two piece dress with pink accessories. Miss Mary Kelley, sister of the groom, was attired in grey, with red and black accessories. Mr. Ted Kelley supported the groom as best man. The wedding music was played by Mrs. E. Kingdon.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home. Mrs. Kelley, attired in a wine colored dress and wearing a corsage of carnations received the guests. Under a canopy of pink and white streamers a pretty decorated three tiered cake centred the bride's table. The Rev. W. D. Elway proposed the toast, to which the groom responded.

Roads In A Mess Pelican Reports

Snow and more snow would get any man's hope down. I wonder if we'll be able to get any harvesting done yet this year. Looks rather hopeless, but we'll wait and see.

The roads are the worst mess they've ever been in all summer, when you get in a rut you have to stay and fix the rut either. These new cars are sure catching it. Feels more like a stone-blast ride than a new car.

Mrs. D. Burtuk who has been visiting with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Leask has returned to her home in Edmonton.

Mr. Bob Wright is a patient in the Wainwright Hospital. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Ed Ross of Red Deer is visiting at her father's Mr. H. Haugen's home.

Most of the folk around here took advantage of the frozen roads Saturday and made necessary trips to Edgerton and elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Pawsey and family of Lloydminster were visiting in the district. Keith got a few ducks while here.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Belanger and family visited at Mrs. A. Belanger's on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Newell had as their guests recently their daughter and son-in-law (Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sted) and family of Saskatchewan.

Miss Belle has been doing some stuccoing while the weather was too wet for anything else.

Mr. Ole Haugen of Wainwright is visiting at the Olson's lately.

Hints For Home Sewers

With the new slim-hipped look so popular this season, it is doubly important that home-sewers know how to insert slippers correctly to minimize bulk. The narrow line is so well established that some foundation manufacturers have moved the slippers in foundation garments slightly to the back. And many of the smartest current patterns are also showing slippers in the back, to allow for peg-topped, silver-slim skirts.

Slippers are not difficult to insert if you carefully follow the step-by-step instructions included in each slippage package. And here are a few tips from local sewing center experts to help you develop the easiest and quickest method.

The seam where the slipper is to be applied should be at least 1/4 inches wide. This gives enough fabric to tuck to new fastener without adding extra fabric. The pocket opening should be approximately one inch long and the fastener to allow for easing of fabric.

Fort Resolution Eyes Fur Prices

Full fur fashions are being followed anxiously by Indians at this northern outpost.

The 200 Indians at Fort Resolution, on the south shore of Great Slave Lake, depend on trapping for a living. If mildy suddenly stops buying fur—as he did last year—they go on relief.

Last season they worked all winter in the northern bush only to sell their furs at giveaway prices when the season ended.

This year the Indians, who naturally favor full-length coats with full sleeves and fur accessories, are optimistic. Prices are still a long way from the peak of five years ago, but they are about double last year's disastrous low.

"It's about two months until the season gets under way and anything can happen between then and now," commented George Pinsky, veteran fur trader.
Established in 1788

Fort Resolution, the oldest settlement in the Northwest Territories, was established in 1784. Throughout its history it has depended mainly on the fur trade for its existence. The trappers are going through hard times now, but they are convinced the market will come back. It always has.

In the meantime, the Indian trappers have a financial cushion to fall back on—family allowances and relief. These payments, together with old-age pensions, permit them to exist through even the toughest times.

The amount which fur prices have fallen in recent years is shown by the trend in mink.

One of the furs which goes to make up every woman's dream coat, mink brings the trapper about $15 at present prices. Last year it brought only half that. Five years ago it was worth between $10 and $15.

This year, as always, society matrons 3,000 miles away will continue to affect the fate of the hardy men of the northern bush.

Start Thinking
About Cupboards

Suppose a friend should walk into your home and start to open your hall closet. What would he find behind the door?

Would your heart sink at the thought of the clutter which would greet his eyes? Or would you feel perfectly satisfied that he'd find everything in order?

Unfortunately, most of us cannot afford to buy a new home or move into a new apartment simply because the closets are not to our liking. Nevertheless, we can do much to remedy the situation. There are many possibilities.

Take hall closets, for instance. Did you know that they can sometimes be converted into attractive little powder rooms for your guests? Such an innovation will be welcomed by your feminine visitors when they drop in for the evening. Closets which are transformed in this manner may be painted in such delicate tints as oyster white, lavender, rose, soft blue or peach color. The wall of the hall, should, of course, be taken into consideration in planning the scheme.

If space permits, the ideal arrangement is to equip your powder room with a small vanity, but, if your closet is small—or you can devote only part of it to this purpose—a mirror can be screwed to the inside of the door and a small shelf with a raised edge can be added below it.

In one home where a hall closet was devoted to this purpose, the coloring selected showed in pleasant contrast to the hallway when the door was opened. The painted hallway was painted in a soft tone of blue-grey while the walls of the closet and the inside of the door were coated with a glowing tint of peach. The powder box shelf and frame of the mirror were enameled a deep terra cotta. Silver toilet articles completed the attractive picture.

Another interesting and useful trick with a hall closet is to convert it into a telephone booth. Such a transformation makes it possible for the user of the telephone to have quiet when the rest of the household is noisy. It also insures a degree of privacy which may not be possible otherwise.

In choosing a color scheme for a telephone booth, you can select stronger colors—forest green, grayed coral, or deep turquoise. Keep in mind, however, that the lighter the color the lighter your booth will be and the less artificial light you will need for making memes. In one hall painted bottle green the walls of the telephone booth were coated with a chattrouse while the shelf and bench were enameled with the deeper green and edged with rich crimson for accents.

Linens closets furnish a great opportunity for the clever homemaker to use her imagination. In one just completed shelves of two different widths provided the greatest possible convenience. Twelve-inch shelves supplied ample space for table cloths and folded sheets. Alternating shelves measured only six inches in depth and served for pillow cases, napkins and small towels. By this system the designer of the closet made it extremely easy to handle the longer pieces of linen. Access to the wide cupboard was gained through full length double doors which had an attractive floral pattern stencilled on their inner surface.

Colorfully painted, cleverly planned closets help enormously in keeping things in order. A badly lighted, dreary looking storage nook is disconcerting to the stunted heart. It's bad enough to have to look at it while you open the door to toss in your gloves. But when you have to set down on your hands and knees to find them again it's even worse. A little planning, some paint, and your natural ingenuity will bring color, light and efficiency to your closets.

WHEN WE COME HOME

Take heart, dear mum
When I am gone
The days will soon pass by
When I'm free
I'll come to thee
So do not weep or sigh
The stormy clouds
Will roll away
The sun will shine again
The flags will fly
As we pass by
When we come home again.
